RUSHVILLE, Ind., Nov. 5 .- Representative James E. Watson closed his campaign in the Sixth congressional district with a speech here this afternoon. He was accorded a magnificent reception, and the ovation tendered him was never equaled on a like occasion in this city. Mr. Watson has made a remarkable campaign. TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Nov. 5.-Eugene V. Debs derived especial satisfaction to-night | mittee, arrived home to-night, and will in speaking to a big crowd of his fellowcitizens, most of whom he had known from boyhood, by reason of the fact that four years ago to-night he was prevented from speaking in his native town because Mr. Bryan and Chairman Jones made personal requests that he spend the Monday before election in Chicago. He spoke five times that day in Chicago. He had made about one hundred speches for Bryan. Five days later at a meeting of Bryan managers in licans closed the campaign here, to-night, Chicago it was said that Mr. Bryan must "get rid of such fellows as Debs" and that Debs had caused the defeat of Bryan as much as had any other one man.

All this came to Debs's ears, even the words used by the men who were in the conference. To make the matter worse, the Terre Haute committeemen would not permit an announcement to be made on Monday that Debs was in Chicago and could not be here, as he had telegraphed from Chicago to have done. The Democrats wanted a big demonstration. They had it, but at Debs's expense, for the story started that he was on a spree and many Terre Haute people to this day believe such to have been the fact. All this hurt Debs. as may be understood, and that is why he was greatly pleased to-night to speak in his home city and repudiate the announce-ment that he had withdrawn in favor of TIEN-TSIN, China, Oct. 1.-With troops of eight nations and every branch of service elbow to elbow under actual field conditions, both Peking and Tien-Tsin at present afford a rich field of comparative military observation, of which the officers of the various forces are taking keen advantage. This is especially noticeable of the continental forces, whose staffs are everywhere taking note of equipments and methods. There are now quartered in this big camp what are said to be representative contingents of every military power. It is a military congress as complete as if devised only for display, and the contrast between the forces is very marked, son county would go Republican to-morrow both in equipment, method and discipline, find little room for criticism of any par-This will be a marked gain over four years ticular contingent of the Chinese expediago and a heavy gain over two years ago, There are evidences of Democratic cor-ruption on all hands but every effort is

The big German camp, which occupies the the American troops, lying east of the foreign concession, is easily the model of all to serve at the polls in this city and the the camps about Tien-Tsin. It has attracted much attention, and nothing but favorable comment is heard. The Germans have a scheme for use of the shelter tent which is considered to be ideal for warm out in full force and taking part in a great weather. The pieces of canvas of an en-industrial parade, which consisted of floats tire company are lashed together and erected in the shape of a shed without partitions. As organized the Pritish forces in China have the most efficient field transport for the character of campaigning they are called upon to perform. Each company is complete with its own pack train, from which it is not separated. In common with the Japanese the British employ a large number of coolies. In fact, they have the largest non-combatant force here, each regiment having its own coolle gang, who perform all camp labor. This is made necessary, however, by the fact that the Indian regiments are composed of high caste men. The ranks of the cavalry regiments are filled with blood relatives of rajahs and princes, and these men are never called upon for camp labor. They are fighting men, essentially, and it is almost safe to say that every enlisted man in the Sixteenth Bengals and the Bombays has his own servant and groom.

Russian operations to the north of China are being watched with keen interest by the other powers. Since the taking of the Pei-Tang forts, followed a few days later by the occupation of the forts at Lu-Thai, the Russian advance up the line of the railway towards Shan-Kwan and the great coaling mines at Turg-Shan has been steady. The details of the movement are lacking, owing to the absence of telegraph and mails, but it is known that the Russians are now in the vicinity of Tung-Shan The coal supply probably will be the most important question which will confront the armies, and the value of the control of the Tung-Shan mines is evident. With a railway direct to Tong-Ku, Tien-Tsin and part of the way to Peking, the Tung-Shan mines, if captured unharmed, will easily supply the armies now in China and all the troops that are expected.

All the armies here now have the situa-ion pretty well in hand, as far as winter upplies are concerned, and every effort is being made to push forward preparations for the rigorous weather to which the troops will be exposed. Wherever possible the British, Japanese and European troops are being quartered in houses. There is a foot of roofage now vacant in the city. Every house has been commandered or rented, and rents for private dwellings have advanced 100 per cent. The large compounds, or walled grounds, which usually surround dwellings in the East, are all occupied as camps. These quarters are much sought after, as the thick walls, often fifteen feet high, form wind breaks, and are also utilized as one wall of a barracks, timber and matting roofs being constructed on the inner side. In none of the concessions is property allowed to be rented or sold without the consent of the military authorities of the respective nations.

On a fumble McQuade caught the bail and started for the opposite goal. He was tackled hard and came directly down on his head. Several players fell on him and when he was lifted from the ground his head fell back upon his shoulders, his neck having been broken. The doctors at the hospital are taking a great interest in the case, and if McQuade they are contemplating there is hope that

Late that night the presses of the city's printer were started on the new ballots without the circle and to-day's injunction

Saloons Will Be Closed.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 5.-The police have been ordered by Acting Mayor Rice to strictly enforce the statute requiring that all saloons shall be kept closed on election day. He construes the law to mean a day of twenty-four hours, whereas it has heretofore been enforced merely during the time the polls were open. The saloon keepers threatened to defy the law and today a secret meeting of their organization, the Royal Arch, was held to discuss the situation. They afterwards issued a statement declaring that they would obey the law strictly in the hope of making it unopular. The entire police force will be on duty to-morrow to watch them.
